

I didn't notice really any differences between the browsers when testing out my website. However, for the contact page, when I compared the checkbox section of the form in Edge, I noticed that the checked part was gray. On the other hand, in Firefox, I noticed that the checked part was blue. The checked part was also blue in Chrome.